Witness From Battle Front Tells of Exhaustion Suffered by Kaiser's Men.

STRONG TRIBUTE IS PAID TO BRAVERY OF SCOUTS

Indications Are Found That Supply of Arms and Ammunition Is Being Curtailed.

LONDON October 24.-Another de criptive recital of events in the north of France from a witness attached to the British general headquarters was issued by the official information bureau today. It is dated October 17. It speaks of the "the fact that we are steadily advancing Robert Lansing, acting secretary of the and that the enemy is giving way before us has proved a most welcome and inspiring change." Continuing, the report savs:

"This is not the only advantage we troops, at any rate, are short of food and exhausted by continual outpost work. We can afford to give our troops more rest and there is no lack of food rest and there is no lack of food.

"Many of the men opposed to us at the present time have had only two months' service, and some of our prisoners declare they will not expose themselves in the trenches. Nevertheless, the enemy in front of us is fighting well and skillfully and showing considerable powers of endurance. They generally contrive to remove their wounded and often to bury their killed before they retire. Their escape is often facilitated by the numerous deep ditches in this country. this country.

Wear Belgian Uniforms.

"Many of their cavalry patrols are wearing Belgian uniforms, a practice which is not excusable on the ground of any lack of their own. "An incident which occurred October 13 shows the resource and bravery of some of our enemy's scouts. A detachment of German artillery was retiring and from time to time coming into cavalry patrols had been standing for some minutes under a tree when he noticed a fine wire hanging down close to the trunk. He followed the wire upward with his eye and was astonished to see one of the enemy in the tree. As he drew his revolver and fired the German dropped upon his head, also firing. The British officer was stunned, and when he recovered consciousness it was to find himself alone, with the peak of his cap blown away and his uniform covered with blood which was not his own.

"As the campaign goes on the tendency of the Germans to rely on the splendid war material with which they have been so amply provided, rather than of the employment of masses of men, has become more marked.

Limit to Their Sunnlies. ome minutes under a tree when he

Limit to Their Supplies.

"There are now indications, however that their supply of material is not inexhaustible, and the significant circular of the Prussian minister of war enjoining a careful search of battlefields for equipment and even the collection of empty ment and even the collection of empty cartridge cases has been quoted in a previous letter. This circular seems to have been prompted more by necessity than by habits of economy, for in the recent righting both gun and rifle ammunition of old patterns has been found in trenches evacuated by the enemy, on their dead and on pris.ners. Among the latter are Mauser cartridges similar to those used by the Boers in the South Airican war."

The narrative then quotes from pamrican war."

The narrative then quotes from pamphlets dropped by German airmen, summoning the French to surrender on the ground that they are only pulling chestnuts out of the fire for the English lish.

"Apart from these endeavors to influence the enemy," it continues, "news of a sort is disseminated among the German toldiers by means of a special military newspaper called the Patrol, which is published in Berlin. Its historical value may be gauged by the statement made in its issue of September 6, as follows:

"It may confidently be asserted that the resistance of the active army of the French has been overcome. The reserve troops and new formation will no doubt give our heroic forces plenty to do as they advance further."

Was Not Justified. "After three weeks more of fighting, wever, the facts must have convinced the German troops that this assertion was not justified." The writer of this report then gives passages from captured German letters indicate anxiety concerning the result of the fighting. One of these,

dated September 27, contains the following passage:
"Today we get papers from September 1 to 5, and it is really painful to read of the boastful announcements of our march on Paris, for we are no nearer Paris now than we were then. I do not know whether you realize this, but there is no use of trying to hide it."
The narrative, after saying "Information recently received corroborates the impression already gained that the enemy's troops suffered severe privations during August and September," and giving extracts from letters to confirm this, concludes with these words: dated September 27, contains the follow-

words: "There is no doubt that the Germans have to a great extent recovered from the conditions implied in the above letters, but their forces are by no

German Embassy Surprised.

At the German embassy surprise was expressed that Dr. Dernburg's remarks ad aroused particular interest. It was asserted that they disclosed no alteraion of policy by Germany, and attention was drawn to public utterances of Count Bernstorff, dating as far back as 1909, to the same effect. Speaking pefore the Academy of Political and Social Sciences in Philadelphia in that cial Sciences in Philadelphia in that year, the ambassador quoted Coolidge's "The United States as a World Power." "Mr. Coolidge thinks," the ambassador said, "the chief source of difficulty between Germany and the United States may be found in the Monroe doctrine, in regard to which the American people' will hear no argument or compromise and are prepared to maintain their position at any cost. "We in Germany are well aware of these facts, but there is not the slightest intention on our part to get a territorial foothold in the western hemisphere."

subject had Count Bernstorff expressed the specific acceptance by his government of the Monroe doctrine was noted here. One reason given for this was that the famous doctrine was too vague and nebulous in statement to be made the basis for formal agreement with European powers.

As the essence of the doctrine is generally understood to be unqualified opposition to the acquisition of territory in the western hemisphere by any European power, however, the ambassador felt that a declaration on that point should be sufficient to allay apprehension in this country which might have been aroused by rumors that Germany planned a colonization policy in South America if victorious against the allies. Bryan Is Silent.

LEAD, S. D., October 24.—Secretary f State William J. Bryan today was shown a dispatch quoting Count Bern-storff, the German ambassador, in a statement that Germany had agreed to statement that Germany had agreed to respect the Monroe doctrine, regardless of the outcome of the European war. He declined to comment on the dispatch, saying:

"I do not care to discuss State Department matters in an interview."
